

About

Hey 🙋 I am Larksanan

A dedicated student with a strong academic background pursuing a BHSc (Hons) degree in Health Information and Communication Technology at Wickramarachchi Indigenous Medical University, Gampaha. I am passionate about learning through innovative solutions, exploring emerging technologies, and solving real-world challenges. I am particularly interested in data analysis, electronics and circuit design, and programming and software development, which allow me to connect theoretical concepts with practical applications. My current focus is on projects involving software development and circuit design, where I use my knowledge to create efficient and impactful solutions.

Feel free to connect with me to collaborate or discuss innovative ideas!

Have a question? Ask me on Contact

